This suburb of Barton was near the Power House and site of the 1921/22 brick cottages usually referred to as Power House cottages. On the reserve in front of the Power House was the first St Paul's Church of England Church. Laurie Fitzharding in his book St John's Canberra. Commemorating 100 Years of Church Life in Canberra has the following to say about the church - In August 1914 a galvanised iron mission hall, St Paul's Kingston [later Barton] was erected by parish subscriptions to serve the workmen camped by the power-house. For some years this hall was used also by other denominations. Later when the Commission erected the Causeway Hall, St Paul's was used mainly for Sunday School purposes. Regular evening services were commenced in 1929, and a regular 9 am celebration in the following year. In 1933 was commenced the 10 am children; service, which became a happy feature of Kingston worship...

Brassey House was built in Barton in 1927. It was built on the wrong block and back to front.

Information about the Hostel is in the Section on Hotels and Houses. Nearby was Telopea Park School that opening in September 1923 and was the first school built in the FCT. Below Brassey House 1927. Photograph loaned by Harry Trevillian.

A number of deaths of people living near the Power House prior to the 1928 electoral roll are recorded in Jean Salisbury's book, St John's Churchyard. They are:

Annie Catherine Rose, second child of Edward and Dorothy Rose. The couple had seven children and lived near the Power House. They later moved to Sydney. Annie Catherine was 2 years and 2 months when she died 26th May, 1920. Following her death 22nd December 1989 aged 93 years the ashes of Dorothy were interred with her daughter.

Norma Louise Fitzpatrick died 28th September 1926. She was 15 months of age. She was the daughter of Cecil Clive Fitzpatrick a clerk employed at the Power House and Edith Ida Fitzpatrick.

Morgan, Emma Elizabeth, wife of Arthur Charles Morgan, labourer employed at the Power House died on 13th November, 1915 aged 28 years. She was mother of two daughters.

Ebsworth, Rebecca Jane daughter of Robert and Rebecca (Fenton) Travers was born in 1872. She married John Ebsworth at St Andrew's Braidwood and the couple had three children. John was employed at the Power House. Rebecca died 15th December 1948.

Dunn, James McRae, Son of James Hector McRae Dunn and Mary Fulton Dunn of the Power House. The family lived in one of the cottages behind the Power House. James was one day old when he died on 1st October, 1920.

Dunn, Mary Helen daughter of James Hector McRae Dunn and Mary Fulton Dunn died 10th March 1929 aged 10 months.

Boyd, Mary Wife of Russell Boyd, labourer who was employed at the Power House. Mary died 25th March, 1917 aged 59 years. Mary and Russell had eight children. The couple married in 1882. Their first child was born at Narrandera.

McEwan, Henry Son of David and Margaret McEwen. He was born at Hobart and worked as a plasterer and lived near the Power House at the time of his death 1st December, 1914 aged 59.
